BY the subscriber, the commodious new Still-House, formerly the property of Benjamin Hildreth, and now the property of Edward Burdett, with two good Mills, one of water and the other of four hundred gallons, with various other implements, pumps and gutters, and other implements necessary for carrying on the business of a distillery, all in good repair; situated in a well watered place, and also a cordial house, stable, and mill house with a mill for raising the water with a horse, it being an excellent stand for selling rum or cordials either by wholesale or retail: For further particulars inquire of

REINHOLD SEAMAN, and

J. BACKHOUSE, Administrators.

N. B. Said Seaman and Latimer have for sale a quantity of New York distilled rum, almost equal to that advertised by Mr. S.

To be sold at private Sale.

THE farm or tract of land formerly belonging to Richard Al-burt, deceased, at Newbury, in Suffolk county, on the West side of Hudson's river, containing about 250 acres, the greatest part of which is cleared, and a small mill for raising grain, hay, &c. with a sufficient quantity of wood land and meadow, of which there is enough cleared, near the house, to make 25 loads of English hay, and more may be made. There is on the land a large frame dwelling-house, which with a small repair may be made very commodious, being 46 Feet by 30, two stories high, a dry cellar under the whole, the windows sashed, &c. also a barn which wants four partitions, and a small orchard. The house is pleasantly situated on the river, and the garden which it affords an extensive prospect. With a small expense a library may be made before the house, at the landing, which is a public one, and allowed to be very good, both as to the depth of water and the easiness of access to it, and there is a new road laid out from the West Hill and the extensive best settlements; so that great quantities of lumber and all kinds of country produce will be brought to it, which will make it an extraordinary place for a merchant farmer. Any person inclining to purchase, may apply, in New-York, to Peter Clapper, who will give a good title; or, near the river, to George Clinton, Esq. or at New Windsor, to Mr. Thomas Palmer, Surveyor; either of whom will treat for the same in reasonable terms.

March 24, 1773.

Paris, December

PERSON animated with benevolent zeal, has found out a secret of essence from barley, of which 4 ounces (at the rate of one sol per ounce) will be a sufficient daily subsistence for a man, who would grow too fat if he used more. With this essence, it is said human nature may be amply supported, without any other aliment, even bread. The project will be proposed to the government, and if it be found practicable, and adopted, will be a great relief to the poor, at this time of general scarcity.

Paris, Dec. 19. They write from Thoulouse that a quarrel lately happened there between the sons of two rich merchants; one of them repeatedly challenged, and being as often refused by the other, was so provoked that he ran him through the body and killed him on the spot. The assassin was immediately taken up, condemned and executed in 24 Hours.

Vienne, Dec. 19. The last letters from Poland confirm the account, that a body of our troops had passed the Vistula.

Hamburg, Jan. 15. There is handed about here a private letter from Warsaw, dated Jan. 5, of which the following is a translation:

"Although all the letters from Bucharest unanimously assert, that the conferences continue there with success, and that according to all appearances they will terminate happily; yet the hope of this desired peace does not soften the rigour of our destiny. The actual circumstances of the kingdom seem to become daily more and more critical and intricate. Several Chiefs of the confederates are arrived here with a view to reconcile themselves to the King; but they all unanimously pretend to oppose the holding of a forced Senatus Consultum, and declare at the same time that they choose rather to run the greatest dangers than give their consent to it. Such pretensions as these, which it is impossible at present to agree to, cannot but increase the misfortunes of the republic, and render the unhappy lot of the Confederates still worse."

Carlscrona, December 7. This day arrived here his Majesty's order for nine ships of war to be fitted out, and to be in readiness to sail at one hour's notice. These orders are to every body's surprise, as we thought that all the disputes between our Court and that of Denmark were entirely settled. The same orders express, that the marine corps are to be completed before the expiration of this month, and that 1500 more recruits are to be raised.

L O N D O N.
Dec. 25. The House of P— and M—, at Stockholm, has stopped payment for the sum of one million four hundred thousand Dollars (about 613,000 l. sterl.) There is no doubt but this failure will in its consequences involve many other capital houses in all the great commercial cities of Europe.

Jan. 2. The great house which has just stopped at Amsterdam, is allowed to be the first in the world. It is no wonder that city and London are in the utmost consternation at this important event. There is no foreseeing what will be the consequence, but it is certain they will be many and fatal! The current cash of this house was alone half a million sterling.

Jan. 2. Our private correspondent at Stockholm (dating his letter December 10) gives us the following extraordinary article of intelligence. "As these last two months the greatest part of the Swedish troops were on their march towards Norway, his Majesty in his journey through the kingdom met them every where in the roads, and had the pleasure wherever he met them to review and exercise them: It happened on the second of this month, that his Swedish Majesty on coming to Wehnerburgh, where the greatest part of the West Gothic Dahl regiment were quartered, the officers of that regiment knowing his Majesty's usual custom, put the troops in good order to be reviewed by the King himself. On his Majesty's arrival he immediately went on horseback, attended by his brother the Duke of Olergothland, and several of the nobility, in order to exercise the troops, when the officers forming themselves into a line of battle, his Majesty put himself at the head of one party, and his brother put himself at the head of the other party, and the respective officers having arranged themselves in due order, the ceremony of the mock battle begun, but just as the party opposite to his Majesty were going to discharge their guns, his Majesty, whose sagacity and prudence nothing can escape, ordered a halt to be made, and the fire-arms to be examined in order to prevent any mischief, when to his very great astonishment, he found all the fire arms charged with bullets.—No farther intelligence we have at present, as the report of it arrived but yesterday at Court, and but a few here are acquainted with it at present. So much is sure, that his Majesty and his attendants had but a very narrow escape. How little know the absolute Monarchs, to what dangers they are exposed!"

The French ministry have received an account, that two vessels are arrived at Port L'Orient, from the Isle of Bourbon, near Madagascar; the officers and crews of which have affirmed in the most solemn manner, that after sailing fourteen days from the Isle of Bourbon, towards the Southward, they actually fell in with, and discovered the so much talked of Southern continent, the discovery of which has been the object of so many attempts by various nations. They coasted it for eight days, but did not venture to proceed on shore, though the country seemed to appear extremely agreeable, and was diversified with a great variety of trees and shrubs. In consequence of this information, orders have been issued to fit out, with all expedition, two frigates of war, provided with every thing proper for extending so very momentous a discovery.

Jan. 4. A letter from an Irish Gentleman at Bologna in Italy, to his friend in Dublin, relates, that a young lady, daughter to the Duke of A—, having eloped with an English Nobleman, on his travels, was pursued by her father, and a numerous train of domesticks, who came up with the fugitives near Udino, in the territories of Venice; and the unfortunate Peer, with his fair mistress, were barbarously murdered on the spot, by the orders of the inhuman parent, who with his servants were arrested by the magistrates of Udino and are now in prison for a murder and outrage committed in the Venetian State contrary to the laws of religion, nature and nations. The Legate of Bologna has demanded their liberty, in the name of the Pope, and that the delinquents may be transmitted to take their trials before his Holiness's Judge; but the senate hath refused, and insists on punishing an offence perpetrated on the ground of the Republic.

An extract of a letter from Glasgow, says: "The troubles in Scotland are like to prove as troublesome to the government as the insurgents in Ireland. Provisions of all kinds are so scarce, trade so dead, and the circulation of cash so very low, that the distresses of the manufacturers are almost beyond description."

It is said that the titles of the Dukes of York and Lancaster are to be revived shortly in persons of the Princes, Edward and Ernest Augustus, his Majesty's younger sons.

We hear Mr. O'Brien's noble relations have made him propose equivalent to what he might expect if his plan had succeeded; particularly as it was owing to them that he had arranged some of the Sentimental of the Comedy.

Dec. 25. The Duke of Venice on the 21st December, Thomas Smith, Esq; aged 80, at his chamber in Grosvenor, a gentleman of considerable property in Yorkshire, particularly of a rich leasehold, concerning which there was a final trial in November last, determined in his favour, against Lord Pennington, who, without any colour of justice had claimed it. Mr. William Dykes, a Quaker, formerly a Woolen Draper in Chesapeake, in his 103d year. At Chalbert, St. Giles's, Bucks, Mr. Thomas Bettelworth, Taylor, aged 93. He had been parish clerk 69 years, officiated the Sunday before his death, and lived to bury all the inhabitants who were living at his commencement in office. At Reading in Berk, Mr. Stewart, Farmer, in his 103d year. At Hamphred, Mr. James Newnham, aged 102, formerly a Lieutenant in the Duke of Marlborough's own regiment. In the city of Amsterdam, from the 1st January 1775, to the 1st January 1776, 10,609 persons. At Eament Bridge, near Penrith, James Bell, a Dutchman, who came over with King William, aged 113 years. At Brussels, Elizabeth De Val, aged 101 years. She had never eaten any meat nor taken any broth in her whole life. At Benham in Sussex, Joan Godfrey, aged 110 who till a week before her death, fetched water from two miles distance. At Glasgow, Col. M'Donald, aged 112.

WILLIAMSBURG, March 4.
On Monday last it was resolved in the Honourable House of Burgesses, that in order to relieve the people from their present distress, occasioned by the circulation of counterfeit paper money, the Treasurer ought to be empowered to borrow specie, to redeem the emissions of 1769 and 1771; and, if he cannot effect the same in a short time, that those notes now in circulation ought to be called in, and exchanged for others, to be issued, the most guarded that may be against counterfeits, to circulate until a proper paper can be imported, for a further exchange of such as may not then be otherwise redeemed.

BOSTON, March 22.
Extract of a letter from a Gentleman in London, to his friend in this town, dated January 5, 1773.
"Some circumstances are working in favour of America, with regard to the duties; it is found by the last year's accounts transmitted by the commissioners, that the balance in favour of Britain, is but about 85 l. after payment of salaries, &c. exclusive of the charge of a fleet to enforce the collection. It is further observed, that the India company is so out of cash that it cannot pay the bills drawn upon it, and at the same time so out of credit that the bank does not care to assist them; whence they find themselves obliged to lower their dividend, the apprehension of which has sunk their stock from 280 to 160, whereby several millions of property are annihilated, occasioning private bankruptcies and other distresses, besides a loss to the public treasury of 400,000 l. per ann. which the company by agreement are not to pay into it as heretofore, if they are not able to keep up their dividend at 12½; and as they have at the same time tea and other India goods in their warehouses, to the amount of four millions, as some say, for which they want a market, and which, if it had been sold, would have kept up their credit. This shows the great importance of losing the American market, by keeping up the duties of tea, which has thrown the trade into the hands of foreigners. This gives some alarm, and begins to convince people more and more of the impropriety of quarrelling with the Americans."

Extract of a letter from St. Vincent, Feb. 14.
"I arrived here the 11th inst. but found the island still in arms against the Caribs, who have done considerable damage here, but these troubles are near at an end, as they are drove to the last extremity, and 9 of the chiefs came in to treat on terms, and the 16th instant is the day appointed to settle this affair which has been of so much damage to this island; it is thought the Caribs are not above 700 strong."

Lieut. Gower of the 14th regiment was carelessly leaning on his fusée, it accidentally went off and killed him on the spot.

Extract of a letter from Pennsylvania, Feb. 17.
"What will be the consequences of the renewed dispute concerning the American claims? Was Mr. H—n under any necessity to extort from the Assembly their opinions, or was it rather indiscreet? They have great and universal honour from their firm claim, and very sensible reply. Even those few among us, who are sometimes called Tories, do not hesitate to declare, that the replies of the Council and Representatives are masterly and convincing. In short I do not know of any one circumstance which so generally gained the publick attention as this debate, upon the appearance of the Governor's Speech; and the replies greatly exceeded the hopes even of those who expected much."

PROVIDENCE, March 20.
At the Superior Court, now sitting here, a cause was tried yesterday, wherein Captain William Rhodes, of the brig Spywood, was plaintiff, and Robert Keeler, Esq; commander of his Majesty's ship Mercury, defendant. The Plaintiff sued in an action of trespass, for assaulting and imprisoning him on board the said brig, at Newport, 26 hours, on her arrival from the West Indies, in September last. The jury returned a verdict for the Plaintiff, with ninety four pounds, lawful money, damages, and costs of suit.

Another action was brought against Capt. Keeler by Seth Wiley, mate of said brig, for assaulting and imprisoning him in like manner twelve days. Verdict of the jury, eleven pounds, with costs.

An action of trover was brought by Mr. John Wiley, owner of said brig, for the embezzlement of 400 bushels of salt, part of two hogheads of sugar, and part of two hogheads of rum, which had been legally entered at the custom house; likewise part of two barrels of Beef, and a barrel of Bread. Verdict of the jury, four pounds, with costs.

Capt. Johnson, in the sloop Kingstown, put in here Saturday the 20th of March, in a gale of wind from Jamaica.

Mr. CARTER,

BENONI PEARCE.
Providence, March 18, 1773.

PHILADELPHIA, March 24.
Capt. Bethel from the Mississippi informs, that the small pox had made great havoc among the people in and about New Orleans.

By a Gentleman, in 19 days from Eustatia, we are informed, that advice was received there from St. Vincents, that a number of Caribs had surrendered themselves to General Dalrymple, on condition of their being transported to St. Matthew's Island, and that more were daily coming in for the same purpose. [St. Matthews is on, or near the Spanish Main, where a number of the Caribs are already settled, and not many leagues from the Island of Tobago.]

NEW LONDON, March 19.
From the GARRIBAN GAZETTE.

BASSETERRE, February 17.
Extract of a Letter from a Gentleman in St. Vincent to his Friend in Basseterre, dated February 12.
"This moment 5 o'clock P.M. the following piece of intelligence is made public. 9 Caribb chiefs have come in to the commander in chief, among whom was the famous Jean Baptiste. Those Caribs have agreed on the part of their whole nation, to surrender, at discretion to his Majesty; and a day is appointed for a congress at Grand Sable, where this arduous affair is to be finally settled. In consequence of this, a cessation of arms takes place from this day. Notwithstanding this, we do not mean to relax in our vigilance, lest treachery should have some hand in their proceedings."

NEW YORK, March 1.
Extract of a Letter from a Gentleman at Lake Champlain, to his Friend in this City, dated Wilkesborough, January 20, 1773.

"Settlement goes on a pace in these Parts now, and from the many Inducements that both Sexes have to marry young here, it is to be hoped this fine Country will, in a short Time, become populous even by the natural Increase of the People here, not to speak of the Emigrants from other Parts. Within these few Days past there have been several merry Weddings on this Settlement, the last three of which were somewhat remarkable, on Account of the Similarity of their Names, three Williams having been married to three Elizabeths, by a Person named William, and his Wife Elizabeth, viz. Mr. William Wallace to Miss Elizabeth Day, Mr. William England to Miss Elizabeth Spry, and Mr. William Hay to Miss Elizabeth Williams. The Men in good Circumstances, and remarkable for Industry and Activity, their Wives for Beauty and Goodness; they have therefore the greatest Prospect of conjugal Felicity. Two of the fair Ones (as you may observe by their Names) were married out of my own Family, one of the 15th, and the other on the 16th Instant. In short, they are taken away from me so fast, that I am often at a Loss before I am supplied with others, and this is my present Situation; therefore as soon as a good Opportunity offers, I request you will send me (if not Half a Dozen) at least one clever Woman, that you know to be capable of managing the Affairs of my Family; and if she is tolerably handsome, and not too old, she may be sure of getting a good Husband, perhaps sooner than I may conveniently spare her."

Wednesday, the 24th here in 21 Days from met with very bad Weather.

THIS bubbling stream, not unproductive flows,
Not loiter in its Course to reach the Main,
Each Flower it feeds, that on its Margin grows,
And bids them bloom, whose Days are spent in vain.
Not void of Mirth, she unobscured, glides
Time's current, floating on with fleet Haste,
For lo! each falling leaf, its Folly chides,
Who lets one precious Moment run to Waste.
